TO DO WITHOUT US BRINGING UP FATHER

Great Britain Hopes Soon to Become Independent.

Has 2,250,000 Persons in Munition Factories.

London, Aug. 16.-Great Britain is rapidly becoming independent of American munition supplies, according to a statement made today in the house of commons by the Hon. Ed-ward Samuel Montagu, minister of munitions.

"The American supply of heavy shells has been invaluable to us." said Mr. Montagu, "but with the increasing home and Canadian supplies, we hope to be able to do without American shells altogether."

England, he pointed out, not only is producing munitions at a tremendous rate—he quoted figures on the increase in production—but is now also supplying its allies with the constituents of high explosives, as well as machine tools and other material entering into the manufacture of shells.

No less than 7,250,000 persons were engaged in the manufacture of munitions in England in June, the minister declared, and this number has been still further increased. Of the total, more than 400,000 were women, he said. He added that 450,000 soldiers had been released from the army to said. He added that 450,000 soldiers had been released from the army to aid in producing shells. The vast total compares with 1.535,000 persons engaged in munitions work before the cetablishment of the ministry, which Mr. Montagu heads.

The speaker, whose address made a most favorable impression, gave a detailed comparison in all departments of the present production of munitions with that before the establishment of the ministry, or prior to the war.

with that before the establishment of the ministry, or prior to the war.

"The quantity of all productions is constantly being improved," said Mr. Montago, "but against such an enemy as Germany we can never stand still."

The minister then referred to the present offensive and said it was a great satisfaction to know that the output of the heavy ammunition now fully covered the expenditure.

"A third of all the production of shell steel is being sent to France," the speaker added.

He then discussed the output of machine guins, which, he said, has been increased fourteen times over since the establishment of the munitions industry.

Mr. Montagu then made his statement that American supplies of shells probably could be done away with altogether in time, pointing out that when the ministry of munitions was established the United States was supplying 79 per cent of the shells used by the English armies.

the rank and file of the workers of America.

"I am thankful, that I was not indicted either with the 'Indianapolis dynamiters' or with any others. I imagine that Senator Sherman ought to be thankful he was not indicted with bank defaulters, trust speculators and other buccaneers in the industrial and commercial field. Simply because he believed in their innocence is no good ground for his indictment, any more than when the 'Indianapolis dynamiters' declared their innocence and I believed them to be innocent."

St. Marys, Kan., Aug. 16.—The first of the annual races held at St. Marys by the North Central Kansas Racing circuit started this afternoon with the sonal condolence, but as an expression of admiration for Americans who are fighting in the French army. After extending sympathy to Mr. Chapman, the union wrote:

"The society regards with equal reverence and admiration all those who are fighting on the soil of France for the cause of civilization and justice and who are displaying a heroism never surpassed in history. Our thoughts turn with profound gratitude toward those children of the great American republic who have brought their manhood to aid that cause and who have given or offered their lives to it."

The union also expressed its "gratitude to all those countrymen of yours who are fighting by the side of curs and who will tomorrow share in the honor of the victory."

[Published in The Topeka State Journal August 16, 1916.]

Executive Department,
GOOD ROADS DAY PROCLAMATION.
The farmer is the man most interested in good roads, because he is the man most directed in good roads, because he is the man most directly affected. Good roads mean that he can get his crops to market at the proper time and with less expense. Good roads mean less expense in marketing and a quicker delivery.

This year there is an unusual interest in the good roads movement. The foderal government, recognizing the general demand for improved highways, has appropriated several million dollars to be distributed and spent, under proper federal and state supervision, in states where the local officials make tax levies to raise a like amount. Many organizations having for their purpose the betterment of roads have sprung up in Kansas, and as a result of the activities of these bodies, there is a wide-spread desire among our people for more and better roadways. Kansas people wan good roads: Kansas people will get them.

So it seems to me particularly fitting

So it seems to me particularly fitting that Kansas should be one of the first states to begin a systematic campaign for the improvement of her highways.

Therefore, I, Arthur Capper, governor of Kansas, take pleasure in inviting the farmers of Kansas, and all others who are interested in the cause of good roads to meet in Topeta on Wednesday, Sepember 11, 1916, to discuss ways and means of furthering the good roads movement.
